Southwest Regional Center
Quarterly Report – July/August/September 2010
Steve Archer, Director
Matthew Schuld, Outreach Coordinator

Executive Summary

Dramatic changes occurred at the Southwest Regional Center during the first quarter of FY 2010-2011. Director Steve Archer resigned in mid-July. Similarly, in late August the FPAN Board of Directors voted to begin the process of terminating the contract between the SWRC and its current host institution, the Town of Fort Myers Beach. Despite administrative adjustments the SWRC conducted a multitude of successful public outreach events.

On July 16, the SWRC conducted a public day at Fort Center in Hendry County where Dr. Victor Thompson of Ohio State University was leading a field school. The event offered attendees the opportunity to tour a renowned archaeological site and witness an ongoing excavation. Though the site is located in a highly rural area, over 100 residents and tourists attended. Our office offered general tours, activities for children, and informational material on Southwest Florida’s archaeological resources. The event also afforded the SWRC an opportunity to partner with the Fish and Wildlife Conservation Commission and the Clewiston Museum. We expect our relationship with these agencies will allow us to increase our presence in Glades and Hendry Counties.

The SWRC provided educational activities and distributed informative material at numerous events in the first quarter of FY 2010-11. In July and August our office worked with several archaeologically themed summer camps, offering educational activities and assistance with materials. We hope to build on the contacts made within the county and city parks systems to provide archaeologically themed activities at traditional camps throughout the region in the forthcoming year. Summer festivals provided a venue for our office to meet the year around residents of our region who, during fall and winter festivals, are often eclipsed by seasonals and tourists.

Lastly, the SWRC utilized the summer months to make valuable contacts at local heritage institutions throughout the region. Outreach Coordinator Matthew Schuld met with administrators at the Boca Grande Historic Society, Randall Research Center, the Cape Coral Museum, and several Collier County Museums to discuss future programming partnerships.
